JOE AND PROSSER PLEASE CHURCHMEN

WAGE EARNERS IN GOOD CELEBRATION LAST NIGHT.

RANDOLPH PRAISES MARYVILLE LAYMEN

"Progressive Citizenship" Is Subject of Fayette Orator Who Delights the Large Crowd with Eloquence

It was a big day for the Wage Earners Bible Class of the Buchanan Street Methodist Church when they welcomed back its founder, the Rev. J. D. Randolph of Fayette, and listened for an hour to the flowing oratory of Paul Prosser of the same city.

The church and Sunday school rooms were filled with men and women of Maryville of all churches who had come to give "Joe" a hearty welcome. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor of the Cleveland Avenue Methodist church, Kansas City, who has the second largest Wage Earners in the Grand Chapter, was also present and lead in the opening prayer after which he made a short talk.

He said that this was a great age for the church because as never before the men were taking hold of the work of Christ's kingdom and seeing in it their greatest opportunity for service. He said that the hope of "Thy kingdom come and Thy will be done" was never stronger than now.

Highest Type of Manhood Here.

Mr. Randolph said that he had not come to Maryville to speak, but had come to see all his old friends and to feel the inspiration which always comes to him from the earnestness and zeal of the Christian manhood of Maryville. He said that he had brought one of his members along to do his talking for him.

"But I do want to say," continued the founder of the Wage Earners, "that I know of no community in this state or country where the men are more alive to the needs of the church or more eager to do the work of the kingdom. I believe that the type of manhood found in Maryville is the very highest.

"Nowhere is the church more influential, and that is because the men are so vitally concerned about the work of the church. I know, too, that the saloons here are doomed for that very reason. And I want you to know that my very deep interest is here, although my labors are now in another field."

Prof. H. B. Schuler of the music department of the Normal, sang a solo, "I'll Sing the Songs of Araby." He was followed by Paul Prosser, who spoke for an hour on "Progressive Citizenship." The oration was one of the kind which used to be known as "silver-tongued."

Chautauqua Lecture Given.

The address was one which Mr. Prosser gave during most of the summer on the Chautauqua platform this year, and which is booked for a number of engagements in lyceum courses. In his introductory remarks the speaker said that he was much impressed with the great laymen's work in which Maryville is known to take such a real interest.

The orator of the evening outlined the development of man up out of savagery to the present state of democracy. He said that the highest type of progressive citizenship was expressed in the new philosophy which Jesus Christ brought into the world: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

President Wilson was eulogized as the most powerful exponent of the real American ideal of the state and the government for the citizen rather than the citizen for the state. He said that the trouble with Germany and other European nations was their spirit that the individual did not count so long as the state prospered.

He characterized Teutonic "kultur" as the highest example of what mere intellect without heart would bring a nation. The European war was said to be the survival of the age-long belief that a nation must make conquests to live.

Hope of Nations Brotherhood.

"Brotherhood, that third feature in the glittering generalities of the French revolution, liberty, equality and fraternity, is the new element which is just beginning to assert itself. And we in this country are periled with the barons of wealth, with the exploitation of the common people for greed just as it is exploited in the old world for military conquest."

"The hope of the world, sick of wars, longing for democracy, restless with the desire of the common people for their own good, is that we shall accept in principle and practice the fraternity of Christianity and the principle in government that the only real sovereign of any man is the will of the majority of his peers, the common people."

Mr. Prosser left last night for his home, but Mr. Randolph remained as the guest of J. H. Porter until the Wabash east this morning. The brotherhoods of the Baptist and Christian churches marched to the meeting in a body last night.

METHODIST ENTHUSIASM

SUBJECT OF REV. O. L. SAMPLE OF BURLINGTON JUNCTION.

Forty-Five of First M. E. Brotherhood Hear Visitor—Federation and Census Favored.

"The Enthusiasm of Methodism" was the subject of Rev. O. L. Sample, pastor of the First Methodist church of Burlington Junction to which forty-five men of the First Methodist Brotherhood listened last night.

Before the address, a business session of the brotherhood was held. Federation of the men's clubs of the churches was favored, and George Moore, president of the brotherhood, was authorized to appoint a committee to meet with representatives of the churches.

T. L. Wadley was made the head of a committee to meet with laymen from other churches to arrange for a religious census of Maryville. It is the hope of the church men to get data from every family in the city as to their church membership and attendance. The committee from each church will meet tomorrow.

C. C. Corwin was made captain of a gospel team which will go to Conception Junction for a meeting soon. The secretary was instructed to send a note of regret to the Wage Earners class because their invitation was received too late to postpone the brotherhood meeting and congratulating the fellow Methodists on the fourth anniversary of the class.

Rev. Sample's Address.
Mr. Sample said that enthusiasm had always been the characteristic feature of Methodism. It had expressed itself in different phases at different periods in the history of the church. The pioneer work of Methodism was cited by the speaker as a direct result.

The Methodist church, Mr. Sample said, was the first denomination to stand out against the liquor traffic both in its sale and use. It first had organized philanthropy. Today it is taking a bold and progressive stand against all abuses and in favor of all reforms.

Four members of the Burlington Junction Methodist church came down with their pastor last night and were guests of the brotherhood. They were J. W. Praisewater, C. B. Zarn, Dr. George Trusty and Dr. M. A. Gaugh. A short social time, during which refreshments were served, followed the speaking.

CRAIG COMPANY TO TAKE UP DRAINAGE WORK.

MUST GET OLD BOAT OUT

Marion Shovel Company Will Have to Remove Dredge Before Work Can Be Resumed.

A new contract has been made for the completion of the 102 drainage ditch, being given this time to a Mr. Craig who has a dredge boat at present near Atchison, Kans. The contract price was 12 cents a cubic yard and it is expected that the ditch will be finished within five months after work has started.

Mr. Craig is tearing down his boat and will send it here so as to be ready to go to work probably in three months or at least by spring. Mr. Craig had charge of the 102 drainage ditch near Bedford, Ia.

Many complications have arisen this year over the work on the ditch. The D. C. Stephens company had the contract for the ditch first, then the Marion Steam Shovel company had it and they refused to go ahead with it and are wanting to sell the boat to the drainage board for $3,000. This offer was refused by the board.

They made out a new contract with Mr. Craig and have sent word to the Marion Steam Shovel company to take their boat out of the ditch. It is now overturned in the river near the J. H. Hanna place, south of Pickering. The ditch from the Iowa line to the Hanna place is completed and the work that remains is from this point to the Carr bridge, south of Maryville.

Fire Drill to be Held Soon by Washington—Other High School Notes

by "Kenny."

Basket ball will be begun at the high school Monday afternoon. A squad of twelve or fifteen boys will be picked by Coach Becker. Tryouts for this will be held all next week.

Then a tournament will be played by the remainder of the boys. This first squad will not play in the tournament, but will get down to practice and try to get in shape for a game just before the Christmas holidays.

The executive committee of the athletic association met Thursday and discussed things for this season. The high school schedule will be made out immediately after the Normal schedule is completed and season tickets will be sold.

Fifty-five members are in the athletic association. This is more than there has been for several years.

The beginning senior class have selected their class colors and motto. The colors chosen are navy blue and gold. The motto is "Non quisso quid" (not who, but what). The class flower has not been chosen yet. The colors of the advanced seniors are black and old gold, and the motto is "Keep Smiling."

The fire drill will be practiced before long. In assembly Thursday Prof. McGrew told everybody to be ready, and gave the necessary instructions.

In assembly Thursday afternoon Leeta and Leska Wray sang a vocal duet and responded to an encore.

The rest of the time was given to the yell leaders, Mart Lewis and Clarence Cook. They had several new yells together, and they were practiced. There ought to be some good yelling at the games this year. There are two hundred and fifty-two enrolled in high school this year, and every one will be expected to buy a season ticket.

The yell leaders intend to get out a yell sheet soon, and this will help everybody to remember the yells.

MAKE IT A GO.

It is to be hoped that the effort to revive the Y. M. C. A. building project may take on substantial form. No investment that Maryville could make would bear greater results or be of more far reaching effect upon the future manhood and citizenship of the community. Young men and boys must have recreation, and, if it can not be had under proper influences, it will be found somewhere else. It is the duty of the citizenship of the city to provide for this condition, regardless of religion or religious affiliations. It is a matter of protection and safeguard to the boys and a matter of clean and upright citizenship for the future.

OUT OF HIS CLASS

By JANE OSBORN.

Katherine Morley, old Doctor Morley's beautiful daughter, was the undisputed widow of Clayton college. And after she had ushered seven classes into Clayton she was smilingly spoken of by the other girls of the town as "The Youth's Companion." Whether it was because she resented this or because of a deeper reason it is hard to tell, but just as the eighth freshman class since her eighteenth birthday was about to enter Clayton, Katherine Morley assumed another pose.

College men failed to interest her any longer, she told people. "They had no true feeling. Her ideal man was more of a primitive."

This was all right as a drawing-room pose, but when Katherine put it into practice and began to be seen walking on Sunday afternoons in the country and attending local attractions with a certain handsome young factory foreman whose cheap green suit and creaky shoes, wide spreading hat and gaudy neckties were suggestive of Hungarian peasant origin, the college community was filled with consternation. And when this flirtation lasted through the winter, and Katherine quite frankly mentioned this young peasant—Alec Brajaska—to her friends and received him at her home when her father was away, things began to look serious.

Most to be pitied was Doctor Morley, her father. One day his assistant in the sociology department, Beardsley Drew, suggested that he might be of some assistance.

"Something surely will have to be done," replied the father. "It is getting to be outrageous. I have spoken to Katherine myself about it. I dread taking the step, but I see no other way out of it. I am afraid Katherine is serious. I can have at least the satisfaction of knowing something of the man's origin. I must know whether there is any reason why Katherine ought not to marry him. I know of no one who can undertake the investigation so well as you, Mr. Drew."

The result of this conference was that Prof. Beardsley Drew undertook the task of looking into the record and standing of Alec Brajaska. As a professor of sociology, he had studied, perhaps more interestingly than Dr. Morley knew, the life and the customs of the factory elements of the men and women in town, who were so far removed from the college circle and college interests. He knew their various dialects, and the task was not difficult.

Drew began his task in a sensible way by discarding his regular clothes, which would have branded him as an outsider, and with a shabby suit and a pair of brilliant tan shoes and a cheap broad brimmed felt hat he saluted forth.

He went to the house where Brajaska was known to live. It was at the hour when the young man would naturally be at work. A young foreign woman answered his knocking and proved to be the daughter of the woman who kept the boarding house at which Brajaska and several of his associates took their meals. Professor Drew arranged to take board at the same place. It was the easiest way to evade suspicion, and as he was having a week's vacation he could carry out his plan without fear of them they were promised to each other and would soon be married.

"But what about Magda?" Katherine's jealousy was still uppermost. "That little Magda," said Drew, "is going to marry Brajaska if you have the good sense to let him alone. You have been behaving like a child, but I love you."

Katherine looked him in surprise, her breath coming fast.

At sundown Brajaska took Magda home to the little boarding house, and Magda had forgotten all about the long months of her unhappiness, so happy was she to rest her head on his broad shoulders and feel that after all they were promised to each other and would soon be married.

"But Brajaska," said Magda, suddenly remembering that the kind-hearted boarder who had gone to the excursion with her had not returned, "where is the new boarder? He was Magda, the young daughter."

"You seem to know Brajaska," he said. "How is it? Did you know him in the old country?"

Magda told him a few things about his bringing up, his boyhood ambitions. He was thirty and she was twenty. They had lived on adjoining farms in the old country and for years her father had been saving to come to this country and had influenced Alec to come. They had all come together and then her father had died.

Suddenly the girl stopped talking and then Morley looked up in surprise to see that she was crying. He put his hand impulsively on her shoulder and she did not resent it. She was apparently too much preoccupied with her own grief.

"Do you not know," she asked, "about me and Brajaska? I was promised to him, and we were going to be married in the spring, and then a beautiful, very beautiful lady with a great deal of money took him away. She will marry him. Brajaska has said so."

Drew's first feeling was for the unfortunate Magda. This feeling was followed by one of anger at Brajaska, who had the insolence to desert a woman of his own class and because of his good looks win the affection of another woman of his class.

Drew remained at the boarding house a week, each day growing more and more acquainted with the sorrowful little Magda. The last day of his vacation was to be the day of the excursion and Drew had seen that Magda had refused the invitation of several of the younger men to go with them. Then he asked her to go with him. She looked away from him shyly.

"No," she said. "It would not be right. I am promised to Alec—"

"But don't you see, Magda," said Drew with more feeling than he usually showed, "perhaps if you go with me and are very happy and I

"But the rich lady will be with him," said Magda. "He will have no eyes for anyone else. I could never stand it."

However, Drew was able to persuade her that a little skillful acting might bring back Brajaska's affections. She was very pretty, Drew told her, even if the other lady was beautiful.

It was a gay assemblage that met in the woods, and although Magda's heart was heavy the sound of the music and the festivity brought the light into her eyes and the color to her cheeks. She laughed and needed little artifice to disguise the true feelings of her heart. Brajaska and Katherine had been watched by their associates more closely than Katherine enjoyed. She was very beautiful, Drew thought, in comparison with their simple, stolid peasant women. He had never before realized how beautiful she was.

He was alone for a minute. Magda had gone off to take part in some contest. He was surprised to see Katherine standing alone at his side, her eyes flashing and the color high in her face.

"Professor Drew," she said distantly, "I am surprised. I never thought it of you."

"Never thought what, Katherine?" he asked, feeling somehow that what he had come to the excursion for had begun to happen.

"I never thought that you would come to one of these affairs with a Hungarian woman. Don't you suppose that it will get back to father and the college?"

"What about yourself?" asked Drew.

"That's quite different. Every one knows about Brajaska and me. And you are just trifling with these people. It is quite different."

"How do you know I am trifling?" asked Drew, feeling the charm of her beauty now that she was angry. "Perhaps I am as serious as you are."

"You, you don't mean—it isn't that little Magda creature?"

"I wonder how serious you are, Katherine," he said. "Do you really mean that you are going to marry Brajaska?"

"Oh, no, I couldn't do that quite. But Brajaska is wonderful. He has so much more spirit than any other man I ever knew."

"But suppose you were to find that the men of your own class had more spirit than you thought? Suppose that I were to tell you and prove to you Katherine, that I had more spirit than to let you throw yourself away on a person like Brajaska, that I had feeling enough to fight for you. Suppose I were to tell you that I have been following you and watching you for the whole winter and that for a week I have been living with Brajaska just to find out for myself whether you and he were really capable of being happy together?"

"But what about Magda?" Katherine's jealousy was still uppermost.

"That little Magda," said Drew, "is going to marry Brajaska if you have the good sense to let him alone. You have been behaving like a child, but I love you."

Katherine looked him in surprise, her breath coming fast.

M.U. FARMERS WEEK JAN. 3-7

Record Breaking Attendance is Expected at Annual Farmers' Short Course to come.

A better way to do everything about
the farm should be learned by the farmer who attends the Farmer's Short Course in Agriculture during Farmers'
Week at the University of Missouri at Columbia January 3-7.

There will be eight different lines of lectures and demonstrations in the Farmers' Short Course. These will include animal husbandry, farm management, farm crops, horticulture,
poultry, dairying, rural economics and
the work of the rural minister. All these courses will be given continuously. The Missouri Homemakers' Conference and many other state agricultural organizations will meet at Columbia during Farmers' Week.

The Farmers' Short Course in Agriculture will last from 8 to 3 o'clock each day. The night sessions of the week will be under the direction of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture.
These sessions will be largely popular lectures. Men of national prominence will be on the programs.
The Farmers' Short Course should not be confused with the Two-Year Winter Course now in session at the College of Agriculture. The Farmers' Course is for the men who cannot attend the seven weeks' classes.

Officials at the College of Agriculture are planning to take care of the largest crowd that has ever attended a farmers' convention anywhere in the United States. They expect the record attendance of 2,810 last year to be broken.

Programs for the Farmers' Short Course will be ready for distribution by November 30. These will show in detail the lectures and demonstrations and the men who have charge of them.
A program will be sent anyone applying after November 30 to the College of Agriculture, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.

DIAGNOSIS

Points the way to treatment. Ability to differentiate between the many diseases a physician comes in contact with and to know the exact one is of vast importance.

When the proper diagnosis is made the battle is more than half won as it is a matter of time only to perfect a cure, if the case be a curable one.

Dr. Prettyman through his large hospital experience and his seeing hundreds and hundreds of cases, has an advantage in diagnosing cases correctly not enjoyed by many physicians.

It is this ability together with his knowledge of drugs and their proper use that makes his success.

You can consult Dr. Prettyman at the Linville Hotel Monday, Nov. 15.

FLYNT ON GALLATIN JOB.

Supervises Water Works for His Kansas City Firm.

F. L. Flynt, recent city engineer, returned last night from Gallatin, where he is superintending the erection of a new water works plant. Mr. Flynt, who is in the employ of the E. E. Harper firm of consulting engineers of Kansas City, was to leave next week for Pleasanton, Kan., to oversee a similar job, but received a telegram changing his plans. The Gallatin contract is the larger one.

Mr. Flynt and his family are moving
to Kansas City today.

NEAT WARD SCHOOL POSTERS.

The children of the ward schools of Maryville have prepared a series of very attractive posters for advertising their program at the high school auditorium next Friday night. Window cards were printed with a blank space in the center, which is filled with pictures cut out and pasted in or colored by the children themselves.

PECULIAR DEATH AT MOBERLY.

Miss Viola Kirkendall was killed at her home in Moberly Thursday in a very peculiar manner. A family horse has the habit of kicking when pointed at.
She was pointing at him with a long stick, when the horse kicked the stick, driving it into her body. She was 17 years old.

JOHN STEIGER BUYS FARM.

John Steiger of Ravenwood has bought the 120-acre farm of Charles Henson, seven miles east of Maryville.
He will take possession March 1. The deal was made through Otis & Strong.

Mrs. Ford Ewalt returned home this morning from a visit with her mother in Osceola, Ia.

DON'T SCOLD, MOTHER!
THE CROSS CHILD IS
BILIOUS, FEVERISH
Look at Tongue! If Coated, Clean
Little Stomach, Liver, Bowels.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish
child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver
and bowels are clogged with sour
waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting
food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again.
Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions
for babies, children of all ages and
for grown-ups plainly on the bottle.
Remember there are counterfeits sold
here, so surely look and see that yours
is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt
any other fig syrup.

FALL KILLS H. W. SMITH, 80

Retired Christian Minister Breaks
Neck While Putting Apples in Cellar at Home Near Parnell.

Rev. H. W. ("Uncle Henry") Smith,
80 years old, fell down the steps of
the cellar at his home, nine miles
southwest of Parnell, about 5 o'clock
Thursday afternoon, breaking his neck.
He died instantly.

Funeral services probably will be held Sunday afternoon at the residence. Burial will be in Jennings cemetery, near Alanthus.

Rev. Mr. Smith was a retired Christian minister. He was putting apples in his cellar Thursday afternoon, and while going down the steps with a load his foot slipped and he was hurried headlong down the flight, his head
doubling under his body at the bottom of the stairs.

Mr. Smith's wife died just two months ago yesterday. He is survived by one son, who lives in Dakota, and the following daughters: Mrs. S. A.
Wilkerson, Stanberry; Mrs. Davis,
Stanberry; Mrs. G. B. Pearce, Raven-
wood; Mrs. Jemima Davis, Ravenwood;
Mrs. E. E. Carver, Conception.

Near the Breaking Point!

From the little town of Tarz, a German mother recently sent a letter that
contained these words:

And the way it keeps on—the killing. Over a year now. When will it end? It gets worse. The whole world is catching fire. The Balkans, too, now—Bulgaria and Greece. I tell you people won't stand it much longer. All these men being killed—fine young men. If there has to be murder like that, why don't they send women to be killed? Why just young men?

Everybody is discouraged.

Men of peaceful nature are crushed,

the passionate desire for peace amounting to physical pain. Always

the same longing for peace, and before

my eyes the spectre of the French

front close at hand with the horrors

of the artillery fire.

Of course, the mothers are weary
of the war. They were weary of it before it had been under way a week.
But reports from Europe are to the effect that the soldiers, too, are weary.

How weary will they have to get before rumors of peace change to peace
proposals?

Mr. Flynt and his family are moving
to Kansas City today.

Mothers' Circle, Mrs. W. B. Price Hostess.

A year ago von Hindenburg declared
that the war would be a test of nerves,
and it is proving all of that. But nerves have a breaking point. When the nerve breaking point arrives,
which side will collapse first. When will the "passionate longing for peace" begin to take a hand in the administration of this war of wars?

Mr. Flynt and his family are moving
to Kansas City today.

Fudge Sandwiches Are Fine.

The natural desire for sweets may
be satisfied in a very good way by giving fudge sandwiches to children
from six to sixty, says Miss Bab Bell
of the Missouri College of Agriculture.
Beat fudge until creamy and while still soft spread between thin slices
of buttered bread. If not cooked too hard it may be kept in a bowl covered with a moist cloth for use as filling
later.

Home of Miss Mary Lewis Scene of Pleasant Surprise Party.

A number of friends gave a surprise party last night for Miss Mary Lewis to celebrate her eighteenth birthday.
The evening was very pleasantly spent playing games, and an indoor weinie roast was another very enjoyable diversion. On the dining table was a large pink and white birthday cake with the number 18 in pink, and also eighteen tiny pink candles. Each guest made a wish and extinguished a candle, after which the cake was cut by Miss Lewis and each given a piece as a souvenir of the evening. Miss Halycon Hooker and Martin Lewis, Jr., assist-

Miss Permelia Inglis and Miss Louise Krouth returned today to their home in Conception, after a visit here with friends.

Miss Inez Hall, who has been the guest of friends here, departed for her home in Parnell this morning.

Miss Gladys Yeaman, a teacher at Arkoe, is spending the week end with her parents.

A RURAL INSTITUTE

HARMONY COMMUNITY TO GIVE
FIVE-DAY COURSE.

M. U.—NORMAL SPEAKERS

Myrtle Tree Probably Will Co-operate in Making Attendance Large—
Many Pledges Received.

A farm and home institute course is being planned by Harmony community farmers, their wives and families for the coming winter. The sessions, which will continue over five days, probably will be held during the third week of December.

Speakers from the extension department of the University of Missouri and from the State Normal will address the Harmony community builders. The date for the course is to be set definitely by A. H. Meyer of Columbia, the superintendent of the extension work of the university.

One hundred and ten men and women who live in Harmony neighborhood have pledged themselves for attendance at the institute. Enough from Myrtle Tree and the surrounding neighbors probably will be in attendance at Harmony to increase the number of students in the school for grown-ups to 150.

Rev. C. R. Green, pastor of the Harmony M. P. church and leader in the community affairs of that well organized neighborhood, has been assisted in preparing for the course by Hubert Null, Ira Kelley, John Lawson, Mrs. Art Craven, Mrs. Fred Buck and Mrs. Patterson. The men and women of the community have been visited. It was necessary to secure fifty pledges of attendance before the university would agree to send the speakers.

There will be two sections to the Harmony institute, one for men and one for women. It is planned that the farmers and their families shall come for the morning sessions and at noon enjoy a basket dinner together, taking part in the discussions and hearing the programs again in the afternoon. It will be necessary for the farm folks to go to their homes for their evening chores and they will return in the evening for some illustrated lectures which are being planned. Mr. Green has a large assortment of slides which he uses in the community lectures that he has given all over the middle west. The church is equipped for showing the lantern slides, also.

For the men there probably will be two lecturers from the university—one an expert on animal husbandry and the other on soils and crops. In addition, R. A. Kinnaird of the Normal school faculty will be asked to make an address. President Ira Richardson of the Normal school will be requested to deliver a lecture one evening of the institute program.

Miss Hildegarde Kneeland of the university extension work, who was in Maryville for the institute last month, probably will have charge of the women's division of the Harmony institute. Miss Hettie M. Anthony of the State Normal school will be asked to take a part in the program also.

HESSIAN FLY KILLED.

Wheat-Growers Seem to Have Checked
Danger in at Least One County.

The local papers and the experiment station thru its county agent and extension service seem to have checked the work of the Hessian fly in at least one county. Very little wheat was sown before the fly-free date, October 13, and in many cases sowing was delayed until the latter part of the month and all voluntary wheat thoroughly destroyed. Preparation of a good seed bed received much more attention than usual, and it seems very improbable from observations made by T. J. Talbert of the College of Agriculture, that there will be much damage from the fly in that particular county next year. Mr. Talbert says that the late fall may result in the appearance of a second brood of the fly, but that such late appearances are not usually very severe altho, they may do a little damage.

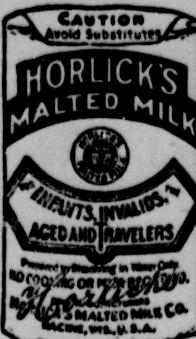

It is impossible to say whether growers have been equally wise in all parts of Missouri, but if so there should be five or ten million dollars' worth of wheat harvested next year in addition to what would have been harvested if the Hessian fly campaign had not been conducted. The wheat had been up for some time and prospects for a good crop next year seem excellent.

Miss Myra Hull arrived last evening from Bedford, Ia., to spend the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hull.

Home of William Mozingo.

A stranger, giving his name as John Osburn, and saying that he was an old soldier and was receiving a pension of $25, appeared at the William Mozingo home, east of Maryville, last evening about dark.

His actions caused Mr. Mozingo to call Sheriff Wallace about 3 o'clock this morning, who brought the man to the jail here. Mr. Wallace sent him on his way to Lexington, Mo., which he claimed was his home.

It was thought that the man had been drinking and he appeared at times to be out of his head.

JOE AND PROSSER PLEASE CHURCHMEN

WAGE EARNERS IN GOOD CELEBRATION LAST NIGHT.

RANDOLPH PRAISES MARYVILLE LAYMEN

"Progressive Citizenship" Is Subject of Fayette Orator Who Delights the Large Crowd with Eloquence

It was a big day for the Wage Earners Bible Class of the Buchanan Street Methodist Church when they welcomed back its founder, the Rev. J. D. Randolph of Fayette, and listened for an hour to the flowing oratory of Paul Prosser of the same city.

The church and Sunday school rooms were filled with men and women of Maryville of all churches who had come to give "Joe" a hearty welcome. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor of the Cleveland Avenue Methodist church, Kansas City, who has the second largest Wage Earners in the Grand Chapter, was also present and lead in the opening prayer after which he made a short talk.

He said that this was a great age for the church because as never before the men were taking hold of the work of Christ's kingdom and seeing in their greatest opportunity for service. He said that the hope of "Thy kingdom come and Thy will be done" was never stronger than now.

Highest Type of Manhood Here. Mr. Randolph said that he had not come to Maryville to speak, but had come to see all his old friends and to feel the inspiration which always comes to him from the earnestness and zeal of the Christian manhood of Maryville. He said that he had brought one of his members along to do his talking for him.

"But I do want to say," continued the founder of the Wage Earners, "that I know of no community in this state or country where the men are more alive to the needs of the church or more eager to do the work of the kingdom. I believe that the type of manhood found in Maryville is the very highest.

"Nowhere is the church more influential, and that is because the men are so vitally concerned about the work of the church. I know, too, that the saloons here are doomed for that very reason. And I want you to know that my very deep interest is here, although my labors are now in another field."

Prof. H. B. Schuler of the music department of the Normal, sang a solo, "I'll Sing the Songs of Araby." He was followed by Paul Prosser, who spoke for an hour on "Progressive Citizenship." The oration was one of the kind which used to be known as "silver-tongued."

Chautauqua Lecture Given.

The address was one which Mr. Prosser gave during most of the summer on the Chautauqua platform this year, and which is booked for a number of engagements in lyceum courses. In his introductory remarks the speaker said that he was much impressed with the great laymen's work in which Maryville is known to take such a real interest.

The orator of the evening outlined the development of man up out of savagery to the present state of democracy. He said that the highest type of progressive citizenship was expressed in the new philosophy which Jesus Christ brought into the world: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

President Wilson was eulogized as the most powerful exponent of the real American ideal of the state and the government for the citizen rather than the citizen for the state. He said that the trouble with Germany and other European nations was their spirit that the individual did not count so long as the state prospered.

He characterized Teutonic "kultur" as the highest example of what mere intellect without heart would bring a nation. The European war was said to be the survival of the age-long belief that a nation must make conquests to live.

Hope of Nations Brotherhood.

"Brotherhood, that third feature in the glittering generalities of the French revolution, liberty, equality and fraternity, is the new element which is just beginning to assert itself. And we in this country are periled with the barons of wealth, with the exploitation of the common people for greed just as it is exploited in the old world for military conquest."

"The hope of the world, sick of wars, longing for democracy, restless with the desire of the common people for their own good, is that we shall accept in principle and practice the fraternity of Christianity and the principle in government that the only real sovereign of any man is the will of the majority of his peers, the common people."

Mr. Prosser left last night for his home, but Mr. Randolph remained as the guest of J. H. Porter until the Wabash east this morning. The brotherhoods of the Baptist and Christian churches marched to the meeting in a body last night.

METHODIST ENTHUSIASM

SUBJECT OF REV. O. L SAMPLE OF BURLINGTON JUNCTION.

Forty-Five of First M. E. Brotherhood Hear Visitor—Federation and Census Favored.

"The Enthusiasm of Methodism" was the subject of Rev. O. L. Sample, pastor of the First Methodist church of Burlington Junction to which forty-five men of the First Methodist Brotherhood listened last night.

Before the address, a business session of the brotherhood was held. Federation of the men's clubs of the churches was favored, and George Moore, president of the brotherhood, was authorized to appoint a committee to meet with representatives of the churches.

T. L. Wadley was made the head of a committee to meet with laymen from other churches to arrange for a religious census of Maryville. It is the hope of the church men to get data from every family in the city as to their church membership and attendance. The committee from each church will meet tomorrow.

C. C. Corwin was made captain of a gospel team which will go to Conception Junction for a meeting soon. The secretary was instructed to send a note of regret to the Wage Earners class because their invitation was received too late to postpone the brotherhood meeting and congratulating the fellow Methodists on the fourth anniversary of the class.

Rev. Sample's Address. Mr. Sample said that enthusiasm had always been the characteristic feature of Methodism. It had expressed itself in different phases at different periods in the history of the church. The pioneer work of Methodism was cited by the speaker as a direct result.

The Methodist church, Mr. Sample said, was the first denomination to stand out against the liquor traffic both in its sale and use. It first had organized philanthropy. Today it is taking a bold and progressive stand against all abuses and in favor of all reforms.

"And for the future," said Mr. Sample, "this enthusiasm must be turned toward evangelism. This must be twofold; not only rescue work but the abolishment of all that drags men down."

Four members of the Burlington Junction Methodist church came down with their pastor last night and were guests of the brotherhood. They were J. W. Praisewater, C. B. Zarn, Dr. George Trusty and Dr. M. A. Gaugh. A short social time, during which refreshments were served, followed the speaking.

NEW 102 CONTRACT

CRAIG COMPANY TO TAKE UP DRAINAGE WORK.

MUST GET OLD BOAT OUT

Marion Shovel Company Will Have to Remove Dredge Before Work Can Be Resumed.

A new contract has been made for the completion of the 102 drainage ditch, being given this time to a Mr. Craig who has a dredge boat at present near Atchison, Kans. The contract price was 12 cents a cubic yard and it is expected that the ditch will be finished within five months after work has started.

Mr. Craig is tearing down his boat and will send it here so as to be ready to go to work probably in three months or at least by spring. Mr. Craig had charge of the 102 drainage ditch near Bedford, Ia.

Many complications have arisen this year over the work on the ditch. The D. C. Stephens company had the contract for the ditch first, then the Marion Steam Shovel company had it and they refused to go ahead with it and are wanting to sell the boat to the drainage board for $3,000. This offer was refused by the board.

They made out a new contract with Mr. Craig and have sent word to the Marion Steam Shovel company to take their boat out of the ditch. It is now overturned in the river near the J. H. Hanna place, south of Pickering. The ditch from the Iowa line to the Hanna place is completed and the work that remains is from this point to the Carr bridge, south of Maryville.

Washington, Nov. 13.—The American consul at Progresso, Mexico, cabled the state department that the American steamer Zealandia was overhauled and searched by a British warship within the three-mile limit of the harbor.

Fire Drill to be Held Soon by Washington—Other High School Notes by "Kenny."

Basket ball will be begun at the high school Monday afternoon. A squad of twelve or fifteen boys will be picked by Coach Becker. Tryouts for this will be held all next week.

Then a tournament will be played by the remainder of the boys. This first squad will not play in the tournament, but will get down to practice and try to get in shape for a game just before the Christmas holidays.

The executive committee of the athletic association met Thursday and discussed things for this season. The high school schedule will be made out immediately after the Normal schedule is completed and season tickets will be sold.

Fifty-five members are in the athletic association. This is more than there has been for several years.

The beginning senior class have selected their class colors and motto. The colors chosen are navy blue and gold. The motto is "Non quis sed quid" (not who, but what). The class flower has not been chosen yet. The colors of the advanced seniors are black and old gold, and the motto is "Keep Smiling."

The fire drill will be practiced before long. In assembly Thursday Prof. McGrew told everybody to be ready, and gave the necessary instructions.

In assembly Thursday afternoon Leeta and Leska Wray sang a vocal duet and responded to an encore.

The rest of the time was given to the yell leaders, Mart Lewis and Clarence Cook. They had several new yells together, and they were practiced. There ought to be some good yelling at the games this year. There are two hundred and fifty-two enrolled in high school this year, and every one will be expected to buy a season ticket.

The yell leaders intend to get out a yell sheet soon, and this will help everybody to remember the yells.

We are authorized to announce Robert L. Young of Buchanan county, as a Democratic candidate for Congress from the Fourth district subject to the primary election to be held August 8, 1916.

The recent corn contest brought out a fine exhibition, but the showing of corns was not complete by any means.

Germany is experimenting with birch flour. They have a theory that bread may be made of wood fibre, and they are giving the preference to birch. Its most enthusiastic advocates, however, admit that the flour is not injured by mixing a little wheat flour with it.

MAKE IT A GO.

It is to be hoped that the effort to revive the Y. M. C. A. building project may take on substantial form. No investment that Maryville could make would bear greater results or be of more far reaching effect upon the future manhood and citizenship of the community. Young men and boys must have recreation, and, if it can not be had under proper influences, it will be found somewhere else. It is the duty of the citizenship of the city to provide for this condition, regardless of religion or religious affiliations. It is a matter of protection and safeguard to the boys and a matter of clean and upright citizenship for the future.

Wrestling Match at Guilford.

Perry O. Melton of Albany agrees to throw Jack Dempsey and "Coon" Hubbard, both of Guilford, inside of one hour, the match to be held at the Guilford opera house this evening. ## OUT OF HIS CLASS

"But the rich lady will be with him," said Magda. "He will have no eyes for anyone else. I could never stand it."

However, Drew was able to persuade her that a little skillful acting might bring back Brajaska's affections. She was very pretty, Drew told her, even if the other lady was beautiful.

It was a gay assemblage that met in the woods, and although Magda's heart was heavy the sound of the music and the festivity brought the light into her eyes and the color to her cheeks. She laughed and needed little artifice to disguise the true feelings of her heart. Brajaska and Katherine had been watched by their associates more closely than Katherine enjoyed. She was very beautiful, Drew thought, in comparison with their simple, stolid peasant women. He had never before realized how beautiful she was.

College men failed to interest her any longer, she told people. "They had no true feeling. Her ideal man was more of a primitive."

This was all right as a drawing-room pose, but when Katherine put it into practice and began to be seen walking on Sunday afternoons in the country and attending local attractions with a certain handsome young factory foreman whose cheap green suit and creaky shoes, wide spreading hat and gaudy neckties were suggestive of Hungarian peasant origin, the college community was filled with consternation. And when this flirtation lasted through the winter, and Katherine quite frankly mentioned this young peasant—Alec Brajaska—to her friends and received him at her home when her father was away, things began to happen.

"I never thought that you would come to one of these affairs with a Hungarian woman. Don't you suppose that it will get back to father and the college?"

"What about yourself?" asked Drew.

"That's quite different. Every one knows about Brajaska and me. And you are just trifling with these people. It is quite different."

"How do you know I am trifling?" asked Drew, feeling the charm of her beauty now that she was angry. "Perhaps I am as serious as you are."

"You, you don't mean—it isn't that little Magda creature?"

"Oh, no, I couldn't do that quite. But Brajaska is wonderful. He has so much more spirit than any other man I ever knew."

"But suppose you were to find that the men of your own class had more spirit than you thought? Suppose that I were to tell you and prove to you Katherine, that I had more spirit than to let you throw yourself away on a person like Brajaska, that I had feeling enough to fight for you. Suppose I were to tell you that I have been following you and watching you for the whole winter and that for a week I have been living with Brajaska just to find out for myself whether you and he were really capable of being happy together?"

"But what about Magda?" Katherine's jealousy was still uppermost.

"That little Magda," said Drew, "is going to marry Brajaska if you have the good sense to let him alone. You have been behaving like a child, but I love you."

Katherine looked him in surprise, her breath coming fast.

At sundown Brajaska took Magda home to the little boarding house, and Magda had forgotten all about the long months of her unhappiness, so happy was she to rest her head on his broad shoulders and feel that after all they were promised to each other and would soon be married.

"But Brajaska," said Magda, suddenly remembering that the kind-hearted boarder who had gone to the excursion with her had not returned, "where is the new boarder? He was a good friend of mine."

"The new boarder. I will tell you about him some time," replied Brajaska. "We had a long talk last night. He and I are always going to be friends. He is a man, like ourselves with great feelings, but he knows, as I do, that to be happy, one must love a woman of his own class."

Montana Folks Here.

Mrs. F. H. Huff and children, Thelma, Maude, Kenneth and Harold, arrived here at noon yesterday from Hobson, Mont., to visit Mrs. Huff's sister, Mrs. J. J. Knabb, living west of the city. Before returning home Mr. Huff will join his family here for a visit.

Drew remained at the boarding house a week, each day growing more and more acquainted with the sorrowful little Magda. The last day of his vacation was to be the day of the excursion and Drew had seen that Magda had refused the invitation of several of the younger men to go with them. Then he asked her to go with him. She looked away from him shamed so.

Drew's first feeling was for the unfortunate Magda. This feeling was followed by one of anger at Brajaska, who had the insolence to desert a woman of his own class and because of his good looks win the affection of another woman of his class.

WOMEN, DON'T BELIEVE THIS!

New York Artists Says Hard Things About Several Colors Worn by Men and Women.

The fleshy woman who wears red commits a crime against herself.

Orange is the loudest and crudest color of all. The one who wears it would enjoy living under an elevated railway.

The boy who wears a pink necktie is liable to be mistaken for his sister.

Bright red is blood, the color of passion. It inflames a bull and would a human if he was still human and not calloused.

Light colors mean youth and femininity and laughter.

The color a woman chooses advertises her and often tells a scandal.

Dark colors mean dignity, and formality, masculinity and often depression.

An artistic home must be a harmonic unit, not a museum of individual specimens.

Superintendent Job of County Farm Has Wreck On Saints Highway Near Bedford.

The following is from this week's Bedford Times-Republican:

Superintendent Job of the Nodaway county farm, was in a serious automobile accident on the Saints Highway, in the vicinity of the C. N. Hargadon farm, Friday morning. He was brought to the office of Dr. A. A. Archer with a broken collar bone, some broken ribs, and both shoulders dislocated. He was taken to Maryville in the afternoon. Mr. Job was en route to Knoxville, Ia., and was accompanied by his brother-in-law. The injuries were the result of the overturning of the car, which was damaged to some extent, and it was brought to the Conder garage. It appeared to the automobile men that the driver "lost his head," the ditching of the car being the result.

M. U. FARMERS WEEK JAN. 3-7

Record Breaking Attendance is Expected at Annual Farmers' Short Course at Columbia

A better way to do everything about
the farm should be learned by the
farmer who attends the Farmer's Short
Course in Agriculture during Farmers'
Week at the University of Missouri at Columbia January 3-7.

There will be eight different lines of lectures and demonstrations in the Farmers' Short Course. These will include animal husbandry, farm management, farm crops, horticulture,
poultry, dairying, rural economics and
the work of the rural minister. All
these courses will be given continuously. The Missouri Homemakers' Conference and many other state agricultural organizations will meet at Columbia during Farmers' Week.

The Farmers' Short Course in Agriculture will last from 8 to 3 o'clock each day. The night sessions of the week will be under the direction of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture. These sessions will be largely popular lectures. Men of national prominence will be on the programs. The Farmers' Short Course should not be confused with the Two-Year Winter Course now in session at the College

DON'T SCOLD, MOTHER!
THE CROSS CHILD IS
BILIOUS, FEVERISH
Look at Tongue! If Coated, Clean
Little Stomach, Liver, Bowels.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish
child. See if tongue is coated; this is
a sure sign its little stomach, liver
and bowels are clogged with sour
waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of
cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul
waste, the sour bile and fermenting
food passes out of the bowels and you
have a well and playful child again.
Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after
giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and
sweet.

Keep it handy, mother! A little given
today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions
for babies, children of all ages and
for grown-ups plainly on the bottle.
Remember there are counterfeits sold
here, so surely look and see that yours
is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt
any other fig syrup.

FALL KILLS H. W. SMITH, 80

Retired Christian Minister Breaks
Neck While Putting Apples in Cellar at Home Near Parnell.

Rev. H. W. ("Uncle Henry") Smith,
80 years old, fell down the steps of
the cellar at his home, nine miles
southwest of Parnell, about 5 o'clock
Thursday afternoon, breaking his neck.
He died instantly.

Funeral services probably will be
held Sunday afternoon at the residence. Burial will be in Jennings
cemetery, near Alanthus.

Rev. Mr. Smith was a retired Christian minister. He was putting apples in his cellar Thursday afternoon, and while going down the steps with a load his foot slipped and he was hurled
headlong down the flight, his head
doubling under his body at the bottom of the stairs.

Mr. Smith's wife died just two months ago yesterday. He is survived by one son, who lives in Dakota, and the following daughters: Mrs. S. A.
Wilkinson, Stanberry; Mrs. Davis,
Stanberry; Mrs. G. B. Pearce, Raven-
wood; Mrs. Jemima Davis, Ravenwood;
Mrs. E. E. Carver, Conception.

Near the Breaking Point?
From the little town of Tarz, a German mother recently sent a letter that
contained these words:

And the way it keeps on—the kill-
ing. Over a year now. When will it end? It gets worse. The whole world is catching fire. The Balkans, too, now—Bulgaria and Greece. I tell you people won't stand it much longer. All
these men being killed—fine young
men. If there has to be murder like
that, why don't they send women to
be killed? Why just young men?

Everybody is discouraged.
Men of peaceful nature are crushed,
the passionate desire for peace amounting to physical pain. Always
the same longing for peace, and before
my eyes the spectre of the French

front close at hand with the horrors
of the artillery fire.

Of course, the mothers are weary
of the war. They were weary of it before it had been under way a week.
But reports from Europe are to the effect that the soldiers, too, are weary.
How weary will they have to get before rumors of peace change to peace
proposals?

A year ago von Hindenburg declared
that the war would be a test of nerves,
and it is proving all of that. But nerves have a breaking point. When
the nerve breaking point arrives,
which side will collapse first. When
will the "passionate longing for peace" begin to take a hand in the administration of this war of wars?

Fudge Sandwiches Are Fine.

The natural desire for sweets may
be satisfied in a very good way by
giving fudge sandwiches to children
from six to sixty, says Miss Bab Bell
of the Missouri College of Agriculture.
Beat fudge until creamy and while
still soft spread between thin slices
of buttered bread. If not cooked too
hard it may be kept in a bowl covered
with a moist cloth for use as filling
later.

A RURAL INSTITUTE

HARMONY COMMUNITY TO GIVE FIVE-DAY COURSE.

M. U.—NORMAL SPEAKERS

Myrtle Tree Probably Will Co-operate in Making Attendance Large—Many Pledges Received.

A farm and home institute course is being planned by Harmony community farmers, their wives and families for the coming winter. The sessions, which will continue over five days, probably will be held during the third week of December.

Speakers from the extension department of the University of Missouri and from the State Normal will address the Harmony community builders. The date for the course is to be set definitely by A. H. Meyer of Columbia, the superintendent of the extension work of the university.

One hundred and ten men and women who live in Harmony neighborhood have pledged themselves for attendance at the institute. Enough from Myrtle Tree and the surrounding neighbors probably will be in attendance at Harmony to increase the number of students in the school for grown-ups to 150.

Rev. C. R. Green, pastor of the Harmony M. P. church and leader in the community affairs of that well organized neighborhood, has been assisted in preparing for the course by Hubert Null, Ira Kelley, John Lawson, Mrs. Art Craven, Mrs. Fred Buck and Mrs. Patterson. The men and women of the community have been visited. It was necessary to secure fifty pledges of attendance before the university would agree to send the speakers.

There will be two sections to the Harmony institute, one for men and one for women. It is planned that the farmers and their families shall come for the morning sessions and at noon enjoy a basket dinner together, taking part in the discussions and hearing the programs again in the afternoon. It will be necessary for the farm folks to go to their homes for their evening chores and they will return in the evening for some illustrated lectures which are being planned. Mr. Green has a large assortment of slides which he uses in the community lectures that he has given all over the middle west. The church is equipped for showing the lantern slides, also.

For the men there probably will be two lecturers from the university—one an expert on animal husbandry and the other on soils and crops. In addition, R. A. Kinnaird of the Normal school faculty will be asked to make an address. President Ira Richardson of the Normal school will be requested to deliver a lecture one evening of the institute program.

Miss Hildegard Kneeland of the university extension work, who was in Maryville for the institute last month, probably will have charge of the women's division of the Harmony institute. Miss Hettie M. Anthony of the State Normal school will be asked to take a part in the program also.

HESSIAN FLY KILLED.

Wheat-Growers Seem to Have Checked Danger in at Least One County.

The local papers and the experiment station thru its county agent and extension service seem to have checked the work of the Hessian fly in at least one county. Very little wheat was sown before the fly-free date, October 13, and in many cases sowing was delayed until the latter part of the month and all voluntary wheat thoroughly destroyed. Preparation of a good seed bed received much more attention than usual, and it seems very improbable from observations made by T. J. Talbert of the College of Agriculture, that there will be much damage from the fly in that particular county next year.

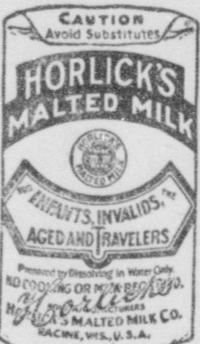

Mr. Talbert says that the late fall may result in the appearance of a second brood of the fly, but that such late appearances are not usually very severe altho, they may do a little damage.

It is impossible to say whether growers have been equally wise in all parts of Missouri, but if so there should be five or ten million dollars' worth of wheat harvested next year in addition to what would have been harvested if the Hessian fly campaign had not been conducted. The wheat had been up for some time and prospects for a good crop next year seem excellent.

Miss Myra Hull arrived last evening from Bedford, Ia., to spend the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hull.

If you are hunting health, you will be satisfied with the game, if you try Chiropractic adjustments.

THE CARE OF ROADS

KEEP DITCHES AND DRAINS OPEN AND USE THE ROAD DRAG.

WHAT DEPARTMENT SAYS

Water, Not Cold, Is the Cause of the Deterioration of Roads in Winter Says Road Specialists.

Water, not cold, is the cause of the deterioration of roads in winter, according to the road specialists of the department. Cold weather does not in itself injure roads, no matter whether they are earth, gravel, or macadam. In fact, an earth road will stand more traffic when it is solidly frozen than at any other time. Excess water, however, is always detrimental to a highway. When cold weather turns this water into ice, the damage that it does is greatly increased. Ice occupies considerably more space than the water from which it is formed, and every person who has lived in a cold climate is familiar with the powerful bursting effect of water when left to freeze in a confined vessel. The same action takes place when a wet road freezes to any considerable depth. It simply bursts, or, as we generally term it in road parlance, the road heaves. Later, when the frost leaves, the road is disintegrated and ruts badly. If this process is repeated a number of times during the winter, a gravel or macadam road may be practically destroyed, while an earth road may become entirely impassable.

A dry road will not heave. Rock, gravel, sand, and even clay when perfectly dry contract slightly on freezing. In order to expand on freezing, these materials must contain or be mixed with water, and the more water they contain the greater the expansion which takes place. But so long as the road remains frozen the damage does not become apparent. Hence the frequent and erroneous idea that it is the thaw which injures the road. The injury was done when the water in the road froze and the particles of the still finer particles of earth or clay were pushed apart by the expanding power of the freezing water. The thaw merely allows the ice to melt and assume its original volume as water.

The remedy is self-evident. Keep the water out of the road. The time to begin preventive measures is early in the fall, before the rains begin. If the road goes into the winter thoroughly dry, with the surface and drainage in good condition, the chances are extremely favorable that it will come out all right the following spring.

Keep the ditches and drains open.

Remove all accumulations of weeds, grass, etc., which tend to retain moisture and obstruct drainage. Furthermore, do this work early, while the ground is still dry and hard. Vegetation and litter hold water like a sponge and allow it gradually to soak in and soften the earth. The job before the road man is to keep the hard, dry surface formed in the summer time from becoming softened by the fall and winter rains and snows. When the fall rains begin the earth or gravel road should be dragged frequently to prevent the formation of ruts and the collection of water. All raveled places on macadam surfaces should be carefully filled in and consolidated.

During the winter, whenever a thaw is coming on, the cross drains and side ditches should be opened up as far as possible so as to prevent water collecting along the roadway. If the thaw is so pronounced that the roadway is softened, the drag should be used; sometimes one round trip of the drag, with the hitch reversed, will entirely rid the earth road of slush and melting snow and leave the road surface practically dry. Don't get the idea that the drag is not needed on your earth and gravel roads in the winter time. Instead, keep it where you can get at it readily, for if the winter is an ordinary one you will need it many times.

Winter destruction begins in the early fall. The best way to prevent such destruction is to forestall it. Keep the road dry and remember that so long as it remains so it will not be seriously injured by frost. Keep the drains open, the ditches clear, remove all vegetation and litter, and use the drag frequently. If the road is kept dry to a depth of 2 feet below the surface there will be little trouble from the coldest winter.
